

Good afternoon, Norco College Friends,

Today begins online instruction for our previously offered face to face courses and the continuation of teaching and learning at Norco College. Through your collaborative efforts we are able to offer our students continuity and purpose in a time of uncertainty; well done Mustangs. Your continued commitment to actively engage, troubleshoot, communicate, and lift each other up is deeply appreciated as we model what resilience looks like for our students and each other.

As of Monday, 3-23-2020, our Norco College administrator and classified counts for the week are:

- Our student tutors and SIs are continuing to support our students remotely. We will have more details for you on More on this tomorrow. We also offer online tutoring through NetTutor: <https://norccollege.libguides.com/nettutor/>
- If you know of students who need wi-fi or other resources to continue their studies, please let your chair, dean, and Dr. Lee know. Note that we still have 135 student laptops available. We are looking to schedule another pick up opportunity for students.

STRATEGIC DEVELOPMENT

- Modeling after College of the Desert, we are adapting a student survey to seek feedback from our students during this transition and to assess their instructional technology and student support needs.
- We are assessing CCCMyPath viability as an online tool
- Social media posts continue daily: Follow us on Twitter, Facebook and Instagram!
