

Norco College
Game Development Advisory Committee Meeting Minutes

Meeting Date and Time: October 1st, 2018. 6:15PM

Meeting Location: Sushi Tomo, Laguna Hills

Attendees (Name and Title):

James Finley, Associate Professor of Game Development, Norco College

Alan Castle, Test Analyst at Blizzard Entertainment

This is a summary of an asynchronous Game Development Advisory Meeting held with the purpose of gaining industry insight and advice on the 4 Game Development programs currently offered at Norco College. Each meeting is unique and the conversation flows in different directions due to the expertise of those present. What follows are the highlights of the meeting.

1. Input on the current economic state of the Game Development industry. What are the growth areas? What areas, if any, are receding?

The games industry is growing in a big way. Cross platform titles are a big deal and Hearthstone

LV SURRI RI WKDW :H¶OO On the Premium Model @ AAA Games @ No Cost to Play
free to play pay structures.

2. Advice for students seeking entry level employment? Advice for internship opportunities, industry mentors, or game studio visits?

Put yourself out there. I knew I wanted to work at Blizzard and I went to any event where I knew the best I could to interact with them. I applied, stuck it out, mayb got lucky, but I made it and others can too.

WKH\¶G EH 2QH VXFH HYHQW ZDV KHOG DW 1RUFH RWKHUV OLNH

3. Any changes to the production pipeline that we should be aware of? Any new software tools or techniques utilized in the industry that Norco College may wish to adopt?

%OL]]DUG GRHVQ¶W DOZD\V XVH WKH QHZHWV WZRQW¶V W HZKHUH
:H¶UH DOZD\V H[SORULQJ QHZ WHFKQLTXHV EXW WKRVH DUH XVXD
and not something that anyone and everyone should adopt.

4. Advice on how to increase female enrollment?

None.

5. Advice on the GAM curriculum structure. Do you support the newly revised GAM programs? Any input or advice on the curriculum or program structure?

$SSUHFLDWH KRZ PXFH VLP SOHU WKLV LV DQG LW¶V FKDQJHG DOF
before getting hired.

6. Any other advice to help Norco College Game Development succeed?

Hire more faculty connected to industry. It will help alot with getting students hired and making Norco College more well-known to the industry at large.