- III. Canvas Update – Ulbert
 - a. Canvas Academy is now ready and open for enrollment. Sign-ups are monthly. Anyone can sign up at any point during the month but must complete it by the end of the month in which they sign up. Course on average takes around 2-5 hours to complete. Ulbert encourages faculty to sign up as soon as possible. Signing up for the training does not mean that faculty have to at the same time complete set-up of an actual Canvas course.
 - b. Interested parties can contact Ulbert directly about starting Canvas Academy. Ulbert has also been including links to Canvas Academy on his weekly emails. Instructors can also contact Ulbert about getting a Canvas (s)-5 t5g a Canv In.(al) auêUjñ Äaa` < Méz continue developing faculty training on Canvas. Popiden asked about the possibility of Ulbert leading a Canvas Training during Spring FLEX.
 - e. Stevens confirmed that for instructors, Canvas Training is required if an instructor wants to teach courses on Canvas. Ideally, this training will be completed by the end of June 2018, though faculty can finish the training over the summer. Ulbert states that the goal is to have all relevant classes transferred to Canvas by start of Fall 2018.
 - f. There is a concern that there needs to be a hard date for the switch to Canvas in order to light a fire under faculty. There is a fear that without a hard date, some will lag behind and be caught without the appropriate training.

- g. Ulbert expressed his enjoyment of the job and appreciation for the support he's received.
- h. Ulbert and Gitau spoke about setting up videos to help orient students to Canvas.
- i. Reade checked in about having all courses automatically associated with a Canvas site, no matter what the style of course. Bobo confirmed he'd seen similar things at other colleges. Ulbert said he would check in on the possibility of such a system.
- j. Stevens proposed that Distance Education become the point contact for collecting data on faculty experience and feelings regarding this transition. Perhaps DE could promote SurveyMonkey questionnaires or similar tools to collect data.

IV. ASNC Student Update on Canvas – Gitau

- a. Gitau introduced himself as Vice President of Campus Relations
- b. Gitau stated that he can serve as a conduit of information on Canvas; he can take information from DE and share it with club representatives who can in turn share that information with their clubs.
- c. Gitau is in charge of ASNC's social media accounts and has been developing relationships with the school officials responsible for the school's official social media accounts. These accounts can then serve as channels through which to broadcast information related to Canvas.
- d. Additional proposals for dispersing information regarding Canvas include a banner on the school homepage and announcements via the light board in the Corral.
- e. Nance suggested technology surveys of student thoughts on Canvas.
- f. Committee raised possibility of additional discussions of student workshops at a later meeting.
